Caused by cracked or uneven concrete Always Safe Sidewalks specializes in removing trip hazards

Always Safe Sidewalks specializes in removing trip hazards from sidewalks and access ramps.

As defined by the Federal Register of the United States Department of Justice, a trip hazard is any change in level of 1/4 of an inch (6mm) or higher on any surface. These trip hazards are typically caused by heaving, ground settling and underlying roots from trees. They are most commonly found on sidewalks at joints or cracks, and each of them represents a liability to city governments, property owners, and corporations according to the ADA.

Trip Hazard Removal Programs

Cities across the US, after initiating an ongoing sidewalk management program with our company, have reduced their liability greatly.

Provo City, Utah provides an outstanding example. The city has not had any trip and fall claims for over 3 years, which is directly related to our trip hazard removal program.

The Always Safe Sidewalk Difference

Our service is unique, because we use a patented technology, which removes hazardous offsets in a precise and smooth cut. Many of our repairs can be completed in minutes, reducing your cost and eliminating exposures on your property.

Traditional concrete grinders and scabblers are unable to reach the edges of the sidewalk or grind each concrete section to be level with the next, so the trip hazard - and the liability - often remains. These grinding methods can also leave an unattractive ragged finish. Sidewalk replacement and filling alternatives are both time-consuming and costly.

The Always Safe Sidewalk approach can reach the edges of every sidewalk and remove trip hazards from virtually any angle and at any location. The technique eliminates trip hazards caused by cracked or uneven concrete, even if they are located in hard-to-reach places like gutters or walls. Our method takes very little time, providing few inconveniences to people using the walkway.
